

VACATIONING AT THE LIGHTHOUSE VILLAS

Sun-drenched and unspoiled, the fine white sandy beaches of Phuket are separated by picturesque headlands amidst a backdrop of wooded hills. Lapping the shore are the sparkling warm blue waters of the Andaman Sea. Shaped like an Irregular pearl and measuring approximately 21 kilometers wide by 48 kilometers long, Phuket is Thailand's largest Island, a province in its own right. Sparsely populated outside Phuket town, the landscape is one of lush green hills, coconut groves, rubber plantations and a coastline dotted with a dozen spectacular beaches. Besides sun, sea and sand, Phuket is a multi-faceted destination and offers ample scope for exploring what is a fascinating island.

GETTING THERE

By Air: The resort is located off the southwest coast, just an hour and 20 minutes flight from Bangkok. Phuket is linked to the mainland by a causeway and is accessible by road as well as by air. Thai International operates many daily flights from Bangkok, while Phuket has also an international airport and has direct air links with Hong Kong, Malaysia, Singapore, Japan and Europe. Alternatively there are overnight services from Bangkok.

By Road: Follow the sign that says Phuket Town. You will reach a roundabout with a monument of 2 sisters in the intersection. Go straight ahead for 4 more kilometers and turn left when you see a sign that says "Boat Lagoon". From the airport, Boat Lagoon is about 25 kilometers and it takes about 30 minutes to get there.

Airport Transfer: The resort upon request can arrange airport pick-ups. You will be met at the airport by one of the resort's Guest Relations Officers who will arrange for you to be escorted to the resort (fare is approximately US$15 per vehicle).

GETTING AROUND

There are plenty of flights to Phuket from Bangkok. First-class air-conditioned buses take about 14 hours to reach the island from the capital. Local transport includes songthaews, which run to many of the island's beaches, and motorcycle taxis. Motorcycles and jeeps can also be hired by the day. (A law passed in 1996 makes it compulsory to wear helmets, so be sure to get one from the company that rented you the motorcycle - the fine can be up to 500 baht if you fail to comply.)

THE AREA

Phuket town is interesting for its surviving examples of old Sino-Portuguese architecture - reminders of the island's long history - and for its shopping and entertainment possibilities.

Natural scenery includes the splendid forested hill of Khao Phra Thaeo National Park, an area where you can glimpse the last of Phuket's virgin jungle. There are numerous beauty spots, including Laem Phrom Thep, the island's southernmost point and a favorite place for watching Phuket's famed sunsets.

Beyond Phuket there is a spell binding natural beauty of the twin Phi Phi Islands, located in Krabi province some 20 kilometers southeast of Phuket and accessible by daily ferryboats. Here you will find splendid beaches, blue sea and backdrop of lush tropical vegetation, and also sheer cliffs rising dramatically hundreds of feet above the water.

Another not-to-be-missed destination is Phang Nga Bay, again included on day tours from Phuket. Here the seascape is made truly fantastic by hundreds of limestone outcrops. Some rise sheer from the water, others are humped or jagged, and all are strange and hauntingly beautiful. A fishing village built entirely on stilts over the sea and a mangrove-shrouded river estuary add to Phang Nga's stunning vistas. Further away are the Similan Islands, which lie to the north of Phuket and are especially popular with scuba divers.
